

NOVA'S RED ROOM LIVE STREAM WITH YUNGBLUD

Nova's Red Room Live Stream is connecting audiences with live music and artist experiences, with the announcement that YUNGBLUD will be the next artist to hit Nova's virtual stage on Friday 8 May.

Hosted by Tim Blackwell, YUNGBLUD will perform his unique blend of punk fury and pop melodicism, including his new single 'Weird!', live for winners from his epic home set up. Listeners will also be treated to an intimate one on one fan Q & A.

Listeners can win their exclusive invitation to take part in Nova's Red Room Live Stream with YUNGBLUD by entering at novafm.com.au and listening to Nova's night show from 8pm tonight.

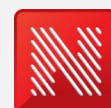

Emerging from the gritty north of England, singer, songwriter and actor YUNGBLUD, brings an explosion of raw energy and thought-provoking lyrics. With more than 50 million Australian streams and over two million Instagram followers, including in excess of 75,000 in Australia alone, he released his debut EP YUNGBLUD in January 2018. His debut album 21st Century Liability followed in July and in October 2019 he launched his second album Underrated Youth. YUNGBLUD's last single '11 Minutes', featuring Halsey and Travis Barker, has been certified platinum in Australia. With over six million Australian YouTube views, YUNGBLUD also played sold out side shows at Falls Festival last year.

From Monday 27 April fans can enter online to win their exclusive invite to Nova's Red Room Live Stream with YUNGBLUD by heading to novafm.com.au and listening to the Nova Network's night show, weeknights from 7pm to 10pm.
